WHAT IS A GREENER FUNERAL?

A greener funeral, also known as a "natural funeral" or "eco–funeral," is any end–of–life ritual that is as harmless as possible to the environment. The essence of a greener funeral is a reduction in environmental impact.

CREMATION – USING FEWER RESOURCES

For many years, cremation has been the most common alternative to the traditional funeral.

Cremation uses far fewer resources than conventional burial, but it does have an environmental impact. Families choosing cremation can take additional steps to make the process more eco–friendly, beginning with the use of shrouds or eco–friendly caskets. Cremation also allows for the recycling of medical implants.

"Flameless Cremation" uses less energy and is considered by some to be a gentler, more eco–friendly alternative to traditional flame–based cremation. The process, sometimes called Alkaline Hydrolysis, occurs in a pressurized, stainless steel vessel filled with a heated alkaline solution. The alkalis, found in common household products, act as the catalyst to accelerate the body's natural decomposition.

Most cemeteries provide a variety of options for cremated remains, including interment in ground spaces, columbaria (above–ground niches) or special gardens for the scattering of the remains. These are also greener options, because they use less space.

NEW OPTIONS - A LIGHTER FOOTPRINT

Cremated remains may be placed in urns made from materials that break down naturally, or specially–designed and recyclable scattering tubes that facilitate a clean and easy scattering. For those selecting water burial there are salt, gelatin and other biodegradable urns designed to float briefly, and then biodegrade within hours or days, reducing the impact on aquatic life. By using an urn that can be placed directly into the water, a more dignified memorial experience can be achieved.

CREMATE

Our caskets and coffins are crafted by skilled weavers from sustainable materials, such as fast-growing willow, seagrass and bamboo. Interior linings are made from unbleached, natural cotton.

Passages® cremation containers are suitable for viewing, services, and witnessed cremation. They can be used as part of a conventional or green funeral ritual and are appropriate for traditions requiring 100% biodegradability. They contain no metal components, and no trees are cut down to produce them. A Memorial Tree certificate is included with every adult casket or coffin. See page 3 for details. Ask about bamboo name plaques (see page 9 and 63 for details).

Passages® caskets and coffins are Fair Trade, and we strive to operate in compliance with the 10 standards laid down by both the World Fair Trade Organization, and the European Fair Trade Association. For more details, visit our website.

Shrouds are available for those seeking a simpler, yet dignified option. One design includes handles for carrying, and a support system. The other is a simple wrap, and must be used with a carrier, casket or coffin.

WATER

These urns biodegrade quickly and naturally once placed into water, some in as little as four hours. Many design, material and color alternatives are available, allowing families to choose from a wide range of options. Urns are hand-crafted and may vary slightly in size and appearance.

Urns are supplied with a biodegradable, water-soluble bag into which the cremated remains must be placed. All urns in this section of the catalog are designed to float briefly and sink intact. Float times will vary by urn and amount of remains, as well as local weather and water conditions. Local regulations must be followed when placing an urn at sea (no closer than three nautical miles from shore).

If multiple family members or loved ones wish to participate in scattering, or to create their own small memorials, miniature or keepsake-size urns allow for these options. See page 51 for details.

REMEMBER

Finding unique and personal ways to remember a loved one is an important part of the healing process. Blooming Ornaments, Mini Shapes and the opportunity to personalize a bookmark or card are meaningful ways to honor a loved one.

In addition, our Memorial Jewelry takes this a step further by incorporating hair or cremated remains into the jewelry piece itself. This encapsulation process requires that the remains be sent to us for casting and mounting. Several designs and finishes are available. Each piece is hand-crafted by our skilled artists, and no two are alike.

BURY AN URN, PLANT A TREE.

While most of our products are not designed to be permanent, a loved one can be remembered for many lifetimes by planting a tree above where you bury a Passages® urn or scatter the cremated remains. Simply ask your funeral director for a tree certificate and directions on how to redeem a live tree (12" sapling) online. For more details on the Memorial Tree Program, please see page 3.

MEMORIAL PENDANT

MEMORIAL MEDALLIONS

Memorial Medallions are a great way to permanently remember a loved one. The 25 gram solid bronze medallions with original "Tree of Life" artwork are a tangible way to remember loved ones long after they are gone. Engrave the back of the Medallions and hand them out at funeral or memorial services. Memorial Pendants are also available on a leather cord and can adorn many of our urns that are not suitable for engraving.
